

The CYBER GOBLIN

Every employee at the office enjoyed having their data protected a lot. But the Cyber Goblin who lived north of the office definitely DID NOT!

So one snowy day while everyone was off playing with their bells & sleighs, the Goblin attacked those who hadn't changed their password in 90 days.

He broke into the office & penetrated their systems with a devilish grin. The employees didn't lock their displays so it was quite easy to log in.

And so... the Cyber Goblin fled with saliva dripping from his lips. Upon their return the employees cried out:
"If only we had followed those information security tips!"
