A Cyber Security Champion

Aspire to be Best of Breed: the old English sheepdog

Adaptable, Strong, and Intelligent.

Keep calm and pupper on.

Protect

Stand guard over your personal identifiable information (PII). Verify that websites are secure prior to entering in your credit card number or passwords — look for the 'https' to indicate it is safe to complete a purchase online.

Look past the fluff

'Just browsing' is a dangerous activity. Many recognizable sites can be 'spoofed'. Fake sites can mimic the look of a legitimate business, but are designed to steal data from unsuspecting buyers not paying attention. Make sure you spell the URLs properly, or you may be directed to a mock site such as 'amazon.com' that is just waiting for you to give them your PII.

Is That a PUP?

A Potentially Unwanted Program (Pup) is usually bundled with free downloadable software that could potentially be adware or a browser hijacker. Keep watch when downloading apps - check the optional installs during set up.
